

VACCINES IN THE 21ST CENTURY

With keynote speaker Professor Gagandeep Kang

Thursday, 14 February, 9.00 - 5.00pm

The Peter Doherty Institute for Infection and Immunity Auditorium, 792 Elizabeth Street, Melbourne

9.00-9.05	Welcome	Professor Stephen Rogerson, Doherty Institute Professor Kanta Subbarao, Doherty Institute
9.05 - 9.15	An overview of modern vaccine development	Professor Peter Doherty, Doherty Institute
9.15 - 10.00	The rotavirus vaccine story: developing and evaluating vaccines in India	Professor Gagandeep Kang, Translational Health Science and Technology Institute
10.00 - 10.30	From discovery to development of a novel rotavirus vaccine to prevent rotavirus disease from birth	Professor Julie Bines, Murdoch Children's Research Institute
10.30 - 11.00	The beneficial non-specific effects of vaccines	Professor Nigel Curtis, Murdoch Children's Research Institute
11.00 - 11.30	MORNING TEA
11.30-11.55	Influenza vaccines: current status	Professor Kanta Subbarao, Doherty Institute
11.55 - 12.20	Best use of a limited vaccine supply in a pandemic: what does 'best' actually mean?	Dr Rob Moss, the University of Melbourne
12.20 - 1.20	LUNCH
1.20 - 1.45	Vaccines against Dengue	Professor Joe Torresi, Doherty Institute
1.45 - 2.10	The conjugated Vi vaccine - a game changer for preventing typhoid fever?	Professor Dick Strugnell, Doherty Institute
2.10 - 2.35	Pneumococcal conjugate vaccine - what can pneumococcal carriage tell us about vaccine impact?	Associate Professor Fiona Russell, Murdoch Children's Research Institute
2.35 - 3.00	Where are we with malaria vaccines?	Professor Stephen Rogerson, Doherty Institute
3.00 - 3.25	Progress towards development of group A streptococcal vaccines	Professor Andrew Steer, Murdoch Children's Research Institute
3.25 - 3.50	Progress towards the development of an HIV vaccine	Dr Amy Chung, Doherty Institute
3.50 - 4.15	AFTERNOON TEA
4.15 - 5.00	Panel discussion: Future of vaccines and disease prevention	Professor Gagandeep Kang, Translational Health Science and Technology Institute Professor Kanta Subbarao, Doherty Institute Professor Sharon Lewin, Doherty Institute
5.00 - 6.00	RECEPTION

doherty.edu.au

/DohertyInstitute

@TheDohertyInst #DohertyInstitute

dohertyinstitute

A joint venture between The University of Melbourne and The Royal Melbourne Hospital